SHIFTING THE ATLANTIC TRAIL

Piece Of Highway Sacrilege Which Should Be Protested All the Way From Bath To Bangor.

In common with other business men's organizations in this section of the State the Rockland Chamber of Commerce is sounding a vigorous protest against the changing of the automobile route known as the "Atlantic Trail" or "Atlantic Highway." Petitions are in circulation from Bath to Bangor, and the State Highway Commission will be given to understand that the proposed change is as unpopular as it would be illogical.

"Rockland would be put on a side line as if it were in Aroostook county, if this change is made," remarked a business man yesterday.

A resolution adopted by the Maine Automobile Association and sent to the Highway Commission reads:

"Inasmuch as the State Highway Commission has voted to change the route of the Atlantic Highway, so called, from the route that it has followed for many years, to a different one, we hereby request that the commission reconsider its vote and re-establish the highway over its old route, which is as follows:

"Kittery, Portland, Brunswick, Bath, Rockland, Belfast, Bangor, Ellsworth, Machias, Calais. We understand that the new route of the Atlantic Highway, which is to be numbered One, has been changed between Brunswick and Bangor so as to run by the way of Augusta and Waterville.

"In view of the fact that the name, Atlantic Highway, implies that it follows the Atlantic coast and that all of the other States from Florida to New Hampshire have carried out this idea, it seems to us decidedly improper to break away from the precedent in Maine."

Portland's view of the situation is naturally a disinterested one, but it takes an emphatic stand against the proposed change. The Express-Advertiser says:

"The Atlantic Highway has been an established thoroughfare of automobile travel for several years, starting at Miami, Florida, and closely following the Atlantic seacoast all of the way north to Calais, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, as well as New Hampshire, in New England, have conformed with the idea suggested by the name of the highway and it was hoped that Maine would see fit to do likewise. In fact there was no thought that it would change the route which has been established in this State for so long a time and which is by the way of Portland, Brunswick, Bath, Rockland, Belfast, Bangor, Ellsworth, Machias, Calais.

"The present idea of turning north at Brunswick and running it through the central part of the State, miles away from the seashore, when we have such a beautiful and excellent road following the coast line, is entirely wrong. One of the most popular tourist routes is destined to be the shore line between Portland and Bangor because of its delightful scenery and the general appeal which there is in the fact that it follows the coast.

"The request of the Maine Automobile Association that the vote of the Highway Commission be re-considered and the shore road re-established as part of the Atlantic highway should be complied with at the earliest possible date."

Aside from the tourist traffic which would be diverted from this beautiful section of the Maine coast, and the consequent loss of business, lies the fact that the change might serve to indefinitely postpone the construction of the Kennebec Bridge.

Rockland, Bath and Belfast—and the intervening towns—should not only sign the petitions unhesitatingly, but the citizens should bring to bear every ounce of influence which they may possess individually and collectively.

THE BOOTH FISHERIES

Annual Report Tells of Heavy Losses But a Satisfactory Come Back.

The annual report of Booth Fisheries, Inc., says in part:

"We have outstanding $2,321,000 six percent debenture bonds, and $800,000 underlying purchase money, bonds and mortgages on our public cold storage plants. Our original issue of debenture bonds was $5,000,000—$2,673,000 having been paid off; we have paid off underlying bonds amounting to $598,313, making a total bonded indebtedness paid off since 1912, $3,271,313.

"In 1912 we had $10,255,547 property before depreciation of $635,374. On April 28, 1923, we had $19,252,166 before liberal depreciation of $4,542,602. We have a capacity to earn today around $2,000,000 per year where in 1912 we had a capacity to earn about $1,000,000 per year.

"In the last three years we have suffered losses totalling $4,009,696; divided $793,562 in 1920, $2,239,044 in 1921 and $977,090 in 1922. There are, however, some compensations. At the end of 1919 the company was topheavy with the inventory accumulation as our contribution to war effort, an inventory priced far beyond its value and threatening the losses subsequently sustained. Today inventories are at the lowest minimum consistent with safe and profitable operation.

"At the close of 1919 what appeared abundant working capital consisted of fictitious values destroyed by deflation. Today the company has simply working capital through co-operation of its banks and is assured of profitable operation as compared to certainty of unprofitable operation faced in 1920.

"We have lost in three years approximately $4,000,000. First of the current year found Booth Fisheries Company in stronger position and with less competition than ever before. We earned real money above all charges, including interest costs, during first four months of 1923. During six months from Nov. 1, 1922, to April 30, 1923, we earned $165,414 above all charges, with small earnings from the salmon department and with no earnings from other idle departments now starting to operate with a larger saving over idleness even if they make very little money. Earnings for next fiscal year commencing April 30, 1923, should exceed any previous year in our history except the two war boom years, 1917 and 1918."

MR. BOK'S TWO OFFERS

That Hundred Thousand Is All Right, But Oh, You Two Hundred and Fifty!

Edward W. Bok, well known in the literary world and a summer resident of Camden, recently made announcement of the offer of a $100,000 American peace prize, but this offer, generous as it is, has not made as much stir about Camden as has another proposed gift carrying $250. The latter gift centers around the national game of baseball in which Mr. Bok is much interested, and the offer offers a pennant and a check for $250 to the winner in a ball game to be contested Sept. 1 by the Camden Athletic team and some team to be selected. The method of selection is to be very unique for the nine that will have the privilege of playing Camden for the prize will be the team that is decided by a committee named, to have given Camden the most evenly contested game on the Camden grounds during the season prior to Sept. 1. It makes no difference whether the visiting team won or lost.

The plan of Mr. Bok is intended to produce a snappy contest for the prize and the only condition is that the visiting team selected to play Camden shall put on the diamond as nearly as possible the same players as in the former game and confined to legitimate players of the team. This is a wise provision to prevent the importation of outside talent in the effort to lift the pennant and check. We do not know if the Camden schedule prior to September 1 is filled, if not the Bok offer is likely to cause many teams to seek a date with Camden on the home grounds.—Bangor Commercial.

FERRIS WHEEL, REVERE

(For The Courier-Gazette)
We saw the city from the ferris wheel. Glean like a golden snake beyond the sea. Then we were lifted high as a great tree. Below, the avenue began to reel.

You held my arm, we rose into the air. Like two birds poised before an awkward flight. We floated like two sea-mews down the night. A wind blew from the sea and tossed your hair.

The city swayed in mist, a thousand cars Went spinning up the city boulevard. A whirl of whistles blew, a merry-go-round squeaked funny music, the coaster lights blinked hard.

But for an instant our heads touched the stars. Before we swung back to the noisy ground. —Harold Vinall.

REMEMBER THIS BALL CLUB?

Thirty years ago this very summer nine chesty youngsters were cavorting around town with the letters "E. E. S." on the front of their jerseys, and defiant looks in their eyes. The great Babe Ruth had not been heard of in those days, but in the breasts of the nine youths above shown beat the fond hope that their bats would come out a reputation akin to that which the Bambino now possesses. In the group are Frank Kallach, Walter E. Weeks, Cyrenus Crockett, Frank Welch, Theodore Bunker, Howard Perry, John Robinson, Leonard Haskell and George I. Lurvey. The cut is not quite as plain as we could have wished but most of the players can be readily identified. The proud manager and owner of this organization was E. E. Simmons, whose fruit and confectionery store at the corner of Main and Myrtle streets is still a popular hanging-out place for sporting fans who like to discuss anything from parchesi to prize fights.

LEON F. HIGGINS DEAD

Former President of the Senate and Prominent Candidate for Governor.

Hon. Leon F. Higgins, prominent in Republican politics in the State for many years, president of the Maine Senate in 1919, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in 1920, died at his home in Brewer Saturday morning of acute indigestion, following a brief illness. A specialist was sent for, but Mr. Higgins failed to rally.

Mr. Higgins was born in Ellsworth 55 years ago, his family later residing in Bangor and Brewer. He had been a member of the Brewer city government and was mayor in 1902-04. He was a member of the House of Representatives from Brewer in 1913 and 1915, serving as Republican leader of the House one of these terms. He was a member of the State Senate in 1917 and 1919, being president of the Senate in 1919.

He would in all probability have been a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination next year.

BE THE BEST

We all dream of great deeds and high positions, away from the pettiness and humdrum of ordinary life. Yet success is not occupying a lofty place or doing conspicuous work; it is being the best that is in you. Battling around in too big a job is worse than filling a small one full to overflowing. Dream, aspire by all means; but do not ruin the life you must lead by dreaming pipe-dreams of the one you would like to lead. Make the most of what you have and are. Perhaps your trivial, immediate task is your one sure way of proving your metal. Do the thing near at hand, and great things will come to your hand to be done.

If you can't be a pine on the top of the hill, Be a scrub in the valley—but be. The best little scrub by the side of the hill; Be a bush if you can't be a tree.

If you can't be a bush be a bit of the grass, And some highway happier make; If you can't be a muskie, then just be a bass— But the liveliest bass in the lake!

We can't all be captains, we've got to be crew, There's something for all of us here, There's big work to do and there's lesser to do, And the task we must do is the near.

If you can't be a highway then just be a trail, If you can't be the sun, be a star; If you can't be a win or you fall— Be the best of whatever you are!

THE ATLANTIC TRAIL

The Courier-Gazette hopes that there will be spared no effort to give tremendous emphasis to the protest registered by this whole coast region of Maine against the action of the Maine Highway Commissioners in taking away from us the official designation of the Atlantic Trail and transferring it to what is generally known as the Kennebec region. For several years the route from Portland to Bangor by way of Brunswick, Bath, Rockland and Belfast, has been officially designated in all books of travel as belonging to the Atlantic Trail, because it brought the traveler into touch with the Atlantic Ocean. To seek to divert this travel now to Lewiston, Augusta and Waterville is to destroy much of the flavor which our State is able to afford the tourists seeking the thing for which the route was given its distinguishing title.

We are told that if the Kennebec River were supplied with a bridge at Bath in place of the ferry this change would not have been recommended. Next are we to be told that the automobile travel has been so successfully diverted by our Kennebec region friends that a bridge at Bath is no longer needed? That may very well be an outcome of this piece of discrimination now aimed at this eastern section, and in opposition to which it behooves us to take up arms with all the vigor of which we are capable.

Dr. van Dyke thinks talk in deteriorating. There is plenty of it, such as it is, but the quality leaves much to be desired.

TALKING ON PROHIBITION

Miss Georgia Hopley, recently appointed general prohibition agent of the Constructive Bureau at Washington, is to lecture throughout Maine during the coming month, being assigned to Knox County for Aug. 6-8, this final date set for Rockland, when she will speak under auspices of the Woman's Educational Club. Speaking in Portland Sunday evening Miss Hopley declared that the ministers, the superintendents of schools, the teachers, the Federation of Women's Clubs, the lawyers and doctors are failing to do their duty with respect to the enforcement of the prohibitory laws. We'll not lay too much on the ministers, who are already a pretty hard-worked lot of good men, but we'll agree generally with the lady that not only those put into her category but most of the rest of us, the butcher, the baker and candlestick-maker, are as law-abiding citizens somewhat shirking our responsibilities.

"You hear little in the schools about prohibition," Miss Hopley continued in her arraignment of the Portland people. "You seldom hear a sermon on the subject. Of course many organizations pledge to support prohibition but that's as far as it goes. They think nothing more about it. And all the time the opposition is working hard and keeping at it."

"The prohibition officers work hard to get the evidence on the bootleggers. They are brought into court and tried. There are many people at this trial but they are all friends of the bootlegger. Consequently the agents lose their case. It would be a good thing if groups of people organized themselves with the object of helping prohibition enforcement. Not all of them could go to hear each case but if a number did go it would have a very good moral effect on the case."

"We hear a lot nowadays about the drinking our young people are doing. I don't believe a word of it. Then we hear that as much liquor is being sold as was before prohibition. In the days before prohibition huge brewery wagons clattered over our streets just laden down with cases of bottles. Today the bootlegger carries his wares in his hip pocket. You can't tell me you get as much liquor in a hip pocket as you could in one of those huge brewery wagons. Then look at the breweries that were busy then and are closed now."

"There are many women who did not want the vote when it was given to them, but now that they have it they should consider it a duty to go out and vote. If the candidate is known to be wet, vote him down. If there is a dry candidate see that he is elected. Don't sit back and wonder why a man is elected. It's the people who elect the candidates. Get out and be one of them. Work for the right kind."

When Miss Hopley gets to Knox County we hope our people will turn out and hear what she has to say. This is an issue likely to play a prominent part in next year's elections.

Boris A. Bakmeteff, a former Prussian ambassador and qualified, it would be assumed, to express an opinion, says that it will take Russia two generations to get back to a condition that will bring her into alignment with the United States. Not many of us will be here to celebrate the achievement.

Friends who kindly mail copies of newspapers to The Courier-Gazette will add to the favor if they will mark the article to which attention is desired to be drawn.

HINTS AT THIRD PARTY

LaFollette Intimates There'll Be One Unless Others Behave.

While believing it is too early for any definite prediction of a third party movement in 1924, Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin declared in Washington Friday that should both major parties nominate "reactionaries" for the Presidency next year, this may result. The Wisconsin senator said he regarded President Harding's administration as reactionary and that Mr. Harding also had placed himself in that political category by his record in the Senate.

Conditions which resulted in the election of Magnus Johnson to the Senate from Minnesota exist throughout the country, including the east. Senator LaFollette said, but even this does not mean that a third party movement can be predicted with certainty now. That depends, he said, largely on what course the Republican and Democratic parties take as to candidates and policies for 1924.

The Senator declined to discuss his own availability as a third party nominee or to mention any other names in that connection, indicating that he would reserve any announcement of his intentions until his return from his forthcoming trip.

When asked about Henry Ford, he replied: "I do not see what would be significant in Mr. Ford as a candidate. I know that he has achieved great distinction in his field of work, but I do not know of anything in Mr. Ford's record which identifies him with any party. He has devoted himself to business rather than to politics."

PRESIDENT HARDING ILL

SUSTAINED MR. CRIE

Chief Justice Cornish Satisfied With His Reasons For With-Holding Lobster License.

A hearing was held at the Court House in Augusta on Saturday before Chief Justice Leslie C. Cornish on an appeal by Reuben Brewer of Boothbay Harbor from the decision of Horatio D. Crie, director of the Sea and Shore Fisheries, refusing to restore to Mr. Brewer his license as a lobster fisherman. In consequence of the information and evidence of his wardens Mr. Crie revoked the license of Brewer in June 1923, and subsequently refused to restore it under the evidence submitted. Application was then made to the Chief Justice to restore his license and on this application the hearing was had on Saturday.

Director Crie and Deputy Wardens Pierce and Robbins were witnesses. Burleigh Martin and James B. Perkins, city clerk, were counsel for Mr. Brewer and Rodney I. Thompson of Rockland for Director Crie. At the conclusion of the hearing the Chief Justice announced his decision sustaining the action of the Director and refusing to restore the license.—Kennebec Journal.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Electric Nosed Out Lime Company Last Night—Rising Joins the Easterns of Brewer.

I SAW CHARLES ROBINSON

at last night's game in the Dusk League at Oakland Park. And as I looked I beheld one of the staunchest baseball fans that Knox county has produced in modern times. Used to dabble at the game a bit himself when he lived over in Warren, where 10 per cent of the men folks were Robinsons and 100 per cent of the latter were ball players. Frequent reference has been made in this department to the high type of baseball which was being played in Warren a quarter century ago, and needless to say that my friend Robinson was right on the side-lines when Sokalexis was making those mighty heaves. Charlie's idea of Heaven is baseball day-times and Masonic meetings nights.—The Sporting Editor.

Tonight—Elks vs. Snows.
 Wednesday—Texacos vs. Electric.
 Thursday—Lime Co. vs. Elks.
 Friday—Snows vs. Texacos.

The standing of the Twilight League will appear in Thursday's issue. It's a mighty close race, and will be even more so if the Snows are to be deprived of Rising. That young pitcher, who is just now so much in the public eye, left yesterday morning for South Brewer, where he will go on the mound for the Easterns until some decision is reached about going to Washington. The Easterns are a strong team, handled at present by Freddie Parent, a former major league, who will be the first of the big chaps to cast a weather eye on our High School friend. It is understood that Rising will pitch today against a team from the Boston University Summer School at Ellsworth. Everybody will watch the result with interest, bearing in mind that it is the lad's first appearance with a semi-professional team.

With the days rapidly growing shorter it is no longer possible to begin the Twilight League games after 6:30 and expect to play the full seven innings. Cut out that interminable practice boys, and get down to business.

Electric 4, Lime 3

The Knox Electric found pitcher Cross altogether to their liking last night, and touched him up for nine hits in the four innings that were possible before darkness shut in. Kallioch pitched another steady game for the Limesters. The game was practically lost in the second inning when Oney undertook to steal home while Rogers, one of the surest hitters on the team was at bat. Perry's catch in right field was one of the game's features. The score:

HAPPY YOUNGSTERS

Having Halcyon Days On Children's Playground.—Ball Team Organized—Picnic Thursday.

The popularity of the Children's Playground is steadily on the increase, and the registration shows daily gain. This is due in part to the playground's excellent facilities and location, and partly to the fact that Misses Blaisdell and Pease are very versatile in arranging programs that will keep the young folks occupied.

The latest acquisition is a baseball team, with Max Cohen as manager and Bernard Jamison as captain. Games have already been arranged with Ash Point and Rockport, and if there are any other communities that would like to monkey with the buzz saw let them communicate with the aforesaid Max Cohen.

Thursday there will be another picnic on the playground. The children are invited to present themselves at 10 o'clock and to remain until 4 p. m. There will be an interesting program, and "eats" of course.

The early registration at the Children's Playground contained the following names:

HADDOCK CHOWDER

Twenty-One Baptist Appetites Sharpened by Sea Air At Camp Snow.

Difficult to excel was the atmosphere of joy and brotherhood manifest at the annual outing of the Baptist Men's Bible Class, which, through the kindness and hospitality of President Maurice Snow and his brother, Walter, took place at Camp Snow in Spruce Head, an ideal spot, last Friday evening. A party of 21 men was conveyed thither by auto.

As the moon peered from its curtain of clouds over the ocean through an atmosphere pervaded by the music of wave and buck-saw, within the cottage flames leaped in the fireplace to the music of the victrola. Amid this setting the time seemed short when there was assembled a bountiful feast featuring a most delectable haddock chowder. The eager faces surrounding the long table seemed a formidable foe to such, but so persistent were both its quality and quantity that capacity for the abundance of sweet things following was limited. The apparent effort of certain brothers to continue with "second table" faded because of physical limitations, and it was comforting to know that among the number was Medical Examiner Frohock.

By unanimous expression Brother Frank H. Ingraham was chosen to preside at the business meeting, which began with song. In the silence which followed the sound of ocean waves like footsteps of the infinite seemed to blend with the pastor's prayer for continued vigorous Christian brotherhood. A nominating committee presented the names of officers for the year who were duly elected: President, Albion Palmer; vice president, Ralph H. Stickney; secretary, W. F. Brown; treasurer, Albert A. Gay. The question of teacher was settled by the selection of Mr. Ingraham with provision for three associate teachers.

Speeches were distributed among the matters of business to the enjoyment of all. The company of two visitors was much enjoyed: Rev. A. B. Whitney of Indianapolis, cousin of Rev. B. P. Browne, and Mr. Tatham. The former was a veteran of the Civil War, having fought beside his father, narrowly escaping death on one occasion. He responded with interesting thoughts emphasizing masculine Christianity.

A lusty cry for more chowder from a husky member was immediately subdued by prompt service and no further disturbance in the nature of hunger was manifest.

The sentiment expressed that these gatherings should be more frequent than annual seemed unanimous, and heartfelt appreciation of the hospitality of the Snow brothers and the efforts of those who prepared the supper was very evident.

And this a list of the men who were in on the good time:

Benjamin P. Browne, Ralph E. Stickney, Rev. Alfred Brown Whitney, Indianapolis, Indiana, Edward J. Mosey, William E. Grant, Jesse E. Bradstreet, Ernest E. Hagar, W. C. Larkin, C. O. Wrenn, L. C. Tatham, Trenton, N. J., Maurice R. Snow, Walter E. Snow, Ralph U. Charles, H. W. Frohock, F. S. Pendleton, George Brewster, Luke R. Brewster, Albion Palmer, Osmond A. Palmer, Wilbur M. Frohock, Frank H. Ingraham.

Attorney Frank H. Ingraham, elected Teacher of the Baptist Men's Bible Class for the 13th year.

"ILLUSTRATED WITH CUTS."

The special article printed on the eighth page of Saturday's issue, "A Nation Within Our Nation," had prepared to accompany it two illustrations which through the peculiar operation of the fax who inhabits newspaper offices got left out. One showed a group of young Seminole Indians, lured by the gift of toy balloons to stand before the camera; the other a portrait of the writer of the article, Mrs. Bessie Fish Owens, who was born in the town of Union, daughter of the late George W. Fish, and well known to a large circle of friends in Knox County. Mrs. Owens' home is in Stockton, California. She is a brilliant woman, a newspaper writer and interested in educational matters. The omitted pictures are here printed, with proper reference to the Saturday article to which they rightfully belong.

Weather This Week

Weather outlook for the week beginning yesterday in North Atlantic states: Temperature near the average for the season; generally fair, but there is a probability of widely scattered thunder showers.

The Camden & Rockland Motor Co. has sold a Franklin sedan to Charles C. Wood of Camden.

A. C. Jones announces the sale of an Apperson Eight to Dr. Chester W. Wheeler, chiropractor.

Stevens Garage has sold a Star touring to J. H. Storer of Warren and one to Al. Sleeper, South Thomaston.

An 80-foot spar, generous as to width was hauled through Main street yesterday, came from the Snow's shipyard to the Smecker quarry between Rockport and Camden.

The Lawrence Corporation is finding scarcity of herring the only drawback to a successful season at its Port Clyde factory, where 50 hands are now at work. The fishermen are being paid $1 a bushel for the herring.

A motor driven ice truck became unmanageable near Oakland Park yesterday forenoon and hewed the middle section out of one of the Central Maine Power Co's. large poles. Just why the driver did not get killed when the structure came crashing down is not quite clear, but he was not even injured.

Eastern Stars are to pay a visit to Lake View Chapter, Jefferson, Thursday night, and the invitation is open to every member of Golden Rod Chapter. The Stars plan to dine at Beach Farm Tea Room prior to the meeting. "Take your car and invite your friends" is the suggestion made by one of the promoters.

Monday, Aug. 20, is the date set for the dedication of the Salvation Army Citadel, as it will henceforth be known. As considerable expense will attach to this event, and the purchase of additional furniture it has been decided by Captain Dixon to issue dedication tickets, which will be sold on the street and among the houses at the nominal sum of 25 cents each. These tickets will soon make their appearance. The Salvation Army's particular need of new furniture is for the emergency room which has been fitted upon the third floor of the remodelled building, with a 10-bed capacity.

Last call for tonight's sparring exhibition at the Arcade. Manager Packard has a reputation for bringing good goods and if the fans don't get their money's worth in the main bout between Steve Travers of Biddeford and Kid Clark of Portland, it will be very surprising. Kid Clark is the fastest little colored boxer in Portland and has tested his skill against such well known New England pugilists as Jim "Kid" Rice, Abe Attell, Marty Burns, Abe Levine and Young Manly. Travers has yet to be knocked off his feet. His fight with Newport Johnny Brown in Salem is said to have been one of the fastest fights ever seen in that city. The semi-final bout will be between Eddie White of Saco and K. O. Couture of Westbrook, a pair of likely lads.

The popularity of the Atlantic Trail, as now constituted, is well shown by the experience of A. T. Thurston, who in the course of a trip to Farmington Saturday counted 16 Maine cars and 21 out of the State cars between Rockland and Waldoboro, and 20 Maine cars and 11 out of the State cars between Waldoboro and Augusta—or a total of 42 out of the State cars for that district as against 36 Maine cars. But between Augusta and Manchester there were only 8 out of the State cars as compared with 17 Maine cars, and between Manchester and Farmington there were only 3 out of the State cars as compared with 22 Maine cars. The summary shows that 42 out of the 78 cars on the Atlantic Trail were from out of the State while only 11 out of 51 off the Atlantic Trail were from out of the State. And Mr. Thurston's census was taken on a rainy day, too.

There will be a food sale at the Fuller-Cobb-Davis store Saturday, at 2 p. m. for the benefit of St. Bernard's lawn party.—adv.

Today sees a general exodus of summer vacationists who had come to the Penobscot Bay region for July. In their place however comes an even larger crop, for August is the greatest of all vacation months in Maine.

A Lewiston despatch in yesterday's papers said: "A half cent increase in the price of milk per quart will be made by the Turner Center System beginning August 1. It was announced tonight. The advance will conform to the action of Boston and other New England companies."

Portland Express: Steve Travers of Biddeford and Kid Clark, the colored featherweight of this city, have been matched to battle at the Arcade next Tuesday night. Clark, slightly out-punited Travers when they met in Portland a year ago, but Travers did most of the fighting.

Regularly after the first evening performance at Strand Theatre a number of patrons remain to hear the overtures which have become so popular there. This is a deserving compliment which Mr. O'Hara has merited by his consistently fine work since his advent here. He has proven himself to be not only a capable organist but a musician of high standing. The following comprise the list of overtures for the present week: Monday and Tuesday, "The Beautiful Blue Danube"; Wednesday and Thursday, Quartet from "Rigoletto"; Friday and Saturday, Gems from "Irene."

Repairs made necessary by a storm some months ago have now been completed, and Rockland's public landing opposite the foot of Pleasant street is an institution for which apologies are no longer necessary. The work has been done under the supervision of Alderman E. W. Freeman, who, among other things laid the granite foundation on which one of the three sections of wooden approaches has been built. The walk is lighted by electricity, is thoroughly sound, and even has a telephone booth, which yachtsmen or other mariners will find a great convenience. The float and the long gang-plank are ample for the purpose. The city has even gone to the pains of building a new driveway from Main street to the pier. The pier is an excellent institution, and the taxpayers will not fail to commend Alderman Freeman and his associates for the good work which has been done.

GOLF TOURNAMENT SATURDAY

A casual glance at passing motor cars the past week has revealed to the observant eyes of Russell Richardson, clerk at Rubenstein's clothing store, 22 cars from other States and one from Quebec. "Rusts" also spotted a Buffalo car with the license number of 1, 201,899.

Automobiles owned and driven by Harry Berman of this city and Louis Fiske of Attleboro, Mass., were in collision on Park street near the Moody garage late last night. Nobody was injured. Mr. Berman's sedan came out second best in the encounter, a bent bumper being the worst of the Fiske car's casualties.

Quite a few Rockland typists bang out a letter with two fingers, and feel that they have not done a half bad job. But don't they wish they had the ability of Miss Birdie Reeves of St. Louis who can write 250 words a minute using only two fingers on each hand. Also, don't they wish they had Birdie?

Bangor Commercial: A story is being told of a motorist who started from Rockland four hours after the steamer Camden had cast off her moorings and headed for Bangor, and reached the Bangor House just as the boat was turning around at the Eastern Steamship docks. But speed means nothing on a pleasant day to a traveler who likes the view along the river.

Rev. A. B. Whitney, D. D., of Indianapolis, who is making a visit with Rev. B. P. Browne, his cousin, preached at the First Baptist church Sunday morning a highly thoughtful and interesting sermon. Dr. Whitney is veteran of the Civil War, assisting at the age of 16 with the Second Massachusetts Battery and serving with Grant from the Wilderness to Appomattox, fighting side by side with his father who served in the same battery. At the end of the war he fitted for the ministry at Newton and Brown and then saw missionary service in the Colorado mining camp of that early period. For many years past he has been pastor of the Indianapolis Second Baptist church, of which he is now pastor emeritus. Another special feature of the Sunday morning service was the singing of "O For the Wings of a Dove," by Mrs. Rachel Browne rendered with much feeling and artistic finish.

THIS WEEK'S CONCERT

Wednesday evening the people of Rockland will have another opportunity to hear the Rockland Band in its weekly concert at Postoffice square. It was hoped that wires could be run into the bandstand at the Children's playground, so that concerts could hereafter be held there but judging by indications, the lights will not be installed in time for the concert this week.

The concert which will be given this week by the Rockland Band, is exceptionally good and it is expected that a large crowd will attend. The program as outlined includes many excellent selections and under the able leadership of Director Fish, this concert should be particularly enjoyable. The program follows:

March—18th Regiment
Overture—Enchantress
Waltz—Wedding of the Winds
Popular—You've Got to See Your Mama Every Night
March—Phi-Kappa Emblem
Overture—Lutetia

March—Shouting Liza
Selection—Best Loved Southern Melodies

These concerts will be held every Wednesday evening through the summer months, weather permitting.

THE MEALEY AFFAIR

Trial of Alleged Gunman Continued a Week That John H. Mealey May Testify.

The trial of Vivien Weaver, the colored deckhand of the steamer James T. Morse, who is charged with shooting John H. Mealey on Winter street Thursday night, was resumed in Rockland Court Saturday, but it was decided to continue the case until Monday, Aug. 6, in order that Mr. Mealey's testimony might be pressed.

Fred Dean, taxi driver, was the first witness Saturday and told of carrying passengers to the Boston boat. While there he was approached by Weaver, the respondent, who said that he had fallen down stairs and injured his hand, and that he wished to be taken to a doctor. Mr. Dean took him to Dr. C. D. North's. The negro was not intoxicated as far as the witness could see. Mr. Dean saw him take a "gun" from his pocket while looking for money with which to pay the doctor. Witness thought it was an automatic.

Wilbert Gray, better known as "Bully" Gray, who is a boarder on Winter street, testified that two men came to the house about 10:30 p. m. and he could see John in conversation with them out on the walk. Witness heard shots, as many as six or seven he should think, and ran out into the yard. One of the two negroes who had been talking with Mealey ran away, and witness grabbed the other, who had been doing the shooting. There was a struggle between Gray and the gunman, and the former was forced to his knees. When he succeeded in getting up again he threw a club at the negro, and the latter returned the compliment—proving that he was a good shot with a club as well as a revolver, for the club landed fairly on Gray's head. On cross examination by Attorney Frank A. Tirrell, Jr., Gray said he could not swear that the prisoner was the man who had done the shooting. It was the witness' impression that the gunman was darker complexioned than Weaver and taller, but in the night and the excitement he might have been mistaken, he added.

On examination by Judge Miller Gray thought it very probable that he might have broken the prisoner's finger during their struggle in Mealey's doorway.

Dr. North corroborated Dean's story as to the prisoner being brought to his office for treatment. The patient claimed to have been injured by a fall. Dr. North saw the "gun," but did not examine it.

Mr. Tirrell made a formal motion that the prisoner be discharged for lack of evidence, but this was overruled. Weaver was unable to furnish bail in the sum of $1000, and was committed to jail to await the conclusion of the trial next Monday.

County Attorney Dwyer was present through Saturday's hearing, interjecting an occasional question.

HINTS AND THINGS

Lay a cloth dipped in cold water on the bottom of the cake tin, the cake will be easily removed without sticking.

Bits of cheese mixed with cream, a dash of cayenne, and spread on crackers, makes a nice dish to serve for luncheon.

If a child should get any foreign substance up his nose, do not try to probe for it, but put a bit of cayenne pepper on his lip under the outer nostril; he will sneeze it out unless firmly lodged; in that case call a physician.

When roasting meat a tablespoonful of sugar added to the water when basting will add flavor and color to the roast and gravy.

If fond of oysters add a little oyster liquor to a tomato bouillon; it greatly improves the flavor.

All silver should be washed and dried as soon after using as possible. Always dry graniteware away from the stove, as it will chip and crack if set to dry as one does tin or aluminum.

Put zinc filings or pieces of zinc on the coals in the furnace; it will clean the chimney of soot.

Vanilla should never be used to flavor fried foods, such as doughnuts or crullers; nutmeg or other spices are appropriate.

Keep old stockings legs if you are a mover, to slip on over table legs, chair legs and other furniture to protect from scratching.

Even a small clock is often annoying in a sick room. Cover it with an inverted glass bowl. The time can be seen and the sound eliminated.

Cranberry and Prune Pie.—Take one and one-half cupsful of cranberries cooked until tender, mix with one cupful of prunes that have been soaked overnight, then add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour and cook the mixture for five minutes. Fill a pastry shell, cover with strips of pastry put on in the form of a lattice and bake in a hot oven.

The friends here of Herman Levin were saddened to hear of his death which occurred in Los Angeles, Calif., June 15, after an illness of one month.

Mr. Levin spent a number of months at the Ranlet cottage, Chickawake Lake. He was very fond of Rockville and expressed the wish many times that he might return for a long stay.

Mr. Levin was a young man of very prepossessing personality, making friends readily with all who came in contact with him. Our little village with its beautiful lake appealed strongly to his artistic appreciation of natural beauty. The writer received a card from him not long ago, expressing remembrance and kind wishes. There is quite a lot of hay down, getting the benefit of the wet weather. A great deal of hay it is said will spoil in the fields for want of help, so hay may not be so cheap as predicted another winter or spring.

Someone stole our raspberries. It is just as much to pick berries in a pasture where signs are up to keep out as it is to enter one's garden and pick them. I like a hog that has four legs.

WATERMAN'S BEACH

Monday, 6 a. m.—It is a beautiful morning, after two days of rain. It is an old saying that when we have a long rain it is good weather for ducks. That applies to old ducks all right, but not to baby ducks. I had to put my baby ducks in a good dry place over the rainstorm.

I didn't get down to the dance Saturday evening. The damp weather stiffened up the joints and I didn't feel like walking down to the village, but I will tell you all about it when I do go.

I neglected to tell you that I had a letter from Brother Richards, one of the Clark Island granite artists, now working at Stonington. He sent me a picture of the bunch that were at the Fourth of July picnic. Mr. Richards said they had a great time and the company did themselves proud in giving their employees a great lobster feed and did everything to make it the most enjoyable Fourth Stonington ever had. It speaks a good word for the company and I bet there are no slackers in that crew.

Do you see the big trucks loaded with the best wood ever hauled into Rockland pass your way? It comes from Spruce Head. So you see we had good wood to burn all last winter and lots to spare.

Did I tell you about the 20-pound salmon that was shipped to Rockland from here awhile ago? Ask Eve, Harriet, your courthousen folks, about it.

I harvested two pecks of early eight weeks peas yesterday. Got the seed from Hanley. I have sold two bushels of them and the folks say they are great.

Didn't have any callers yesterday, owing to the damp weather.

Had a call from Rockland's postmaster the other day. Bert is looking fine. I don't think he is losing any pounds on account of the cares of the office. That same old smile is there still.

Sun-Loving Star Gazer.

She was a sun-loving Smith college freshman from the South, and although greatly interested in studying the stars, she found as the weather grew colder that she could hardly endure the night observing that her astronomy course required. So she took the advice of her friends and tried hats, fur coats, woolen stockings and warm gloves galore, but her hands and feet still froze and she was miserable.

One night she appeared at the observatory with a beaming face and hands that were to stay warm. She had solved her perplexing problem. In either bulging pocket was a metal hot water bottle filled with the hottest water that her house could provide, and, although for the first night of her experiment her hands sought her pockets more often than her books, she now does her observing almost willingly.—Chicago Journal.

Soldier Ants.

Before the biological society in London a naturalist described his studies of the African termites, or white ants. Certain individuals in every nest have no other apparent function except that of fighters or soldiers. Some have a long beak from which they eject an acrid, corrosive fluid; others inspire terror by making a loud clicking noise with their mandibles; but they neither shoot nor bite. One singular observation of the naturalist was that the soldier ants, which rush out to defend an attacked nest, do not return to the nest, but wander about and soon perish from exposure to the outside air.

Wiping Out Pests.

A record of 303 pocket gophers and 60 moles caught in 11 months ending in November, obtained for Roy Hanenkrat, an Oregon boy, a prize of $25.

Another boy, Ferdinand Beeker, caught 320 moles and received a second prize of $15. These boys were taking part in a contest organized in Tillamook county, Oregon, to eradicate these pests. The county was divided into three districts, and prizes amounting to $50 were allotted to each district. Forty boys and girls entered the contest.

LIKE ANIMALS OF THE WILD

Utmost Severity of the Elements Had No Effect on Fuegiens, According to Darwin.
Charles Darwin, during his voyage round the world in H. M. S. Beagle, was particularly struck with the hardness of the Fuegiens, who go in a state of nudity, or almost entirely so. He says:
"Among these central tribes the men generally have an otter skin, or some small scrap about as large as a pocket handkerchief to cover their nakedness, which is barely sufficient to cover their backs as low down as their loins."
One day while going on shore near Wollaston Island, Darwin's party was pulled alongside a canoe which contained six Fuegiens who were, he says, "quite naked, and even one full-grown woman was absolutely so. It was raining heavily, and the fresh water, together with the spray, trickled down her body. In another harbor not far distant a woman who was suckling a recently born child came, one day, alongside the vessel and remained there out of mere curiosity whilst the steel fell and thawed on her naked bosom and on the skin of her naked baby." This was during the winter season.

Amber Is Product of Pine Trees.

In Lithuania amber was used long ago for many and varied purposes. Among the women of olden Lithuania the quaint custom of hanging amber beads on the small child sick with jaundice was followed. It was supposed to effect the disappearance of the disease. Beautiful rosaries were made from amber, and to adorn their persons fair Lithuanian girls fashioned necklaces from amber beads.
Amber is the product of pine trees. Sometimes the pitch from the pines flowed through broken limbs and hung for many years until the pine became old, rotted and fell down. When rotted it became mixed with the ground, and a flood would cause it to become covered with soil. After being covered with soil for many years, the limbs of the rotted pines hardened and became unbreakable.

PARK THEATRE

"The Custard Cup," widely read novel, has been put into screen form and is shown today at the Park. Mary Carr, is the featured player. She will be seen in a picture which is entirely different from the "mother" story which has made her famous, her character being that of a woman who possesses the rare quality of always seeing the bright side of life. The serious thread running through the story is human and appealing, and there is a strong dramatic interest to many of the situations. A comedy and News Reel complete the program.

Scoring a decided hit everywhere, "Java Head," George Melford's latest Paramount picture production, will be shown at the Park Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. The story, a tale of Shanghai, China, and of Salome, Mass., appeared as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post. It was written by Joseph Hergeshimer. A glimpse of the cast will give an idea of the quality of the picture. The players include Jacqueline Logan, George Pawcett and Raymond Hutton, who appeared in "Zola," "Leatrice Joy," of "Man- slaughter," fame and Albert Roscoe. The settings and photography of this picture defy criticism. Which girl wins your heart? Lovely Leatrice Joy as the charming Chinese bride of the bold young American who saved her life. Pretty Jacqueline Logan as the Yankee "girl left behind him" ready to die rather than give him up. When they meet face to face, rivals in love—Imagine the gorgeous thrills and heart-tugs the author of "Tolable David" has lavished upon this story! Imagine the luxurious way the producer of "The Sheik" has pictured them! All the seductive lure of the Orient, the tang of the storm-swept sea, the picturesque charm of Old Salem in the glorious clipper-ship days—it's all in this beautiful romance. You'll be proud you've seen "Java Head." It's among the two or three really great pictures of the year—adv.

STRAND THEATRE

"The Man of the Forest," today's feature, is a Zane Grey picture of thrills from top to bottom. Harvey Riggs, protégé of Al Auchincloss, secretly plots with Lem Beasely to secure possession of his patron's ranch. Auchincloss, whose health is failing, sends East for his two nieces, Helen and Eo, to whom he intends leaving his property. He also sends up the mountains for Milt Dale, who lives alone with only a huge black bear and a mountain lion as his companions, for he feels that Dale can help him. Meanwhile the girls arrive, and a friendship springs into being between Dale and Helen. Riggs resents this, for he purposes to win Helen—and the ranch—for himself. He contrives to have Dale discredited and sent from the ranch. The girls are kidnapped by a gang of desperadoes under the leadership of one of Beasely's henchmen. Events work up to a very strong climax.

In the granting of divorce on the ground of incurable insanity, an unfair deal to the sick and helpless, or is it common humanity to set free from hideous marriage bonds thousands of pitiful men and women? Hilary Fairfield pleaded for the sick, for he knew that he had inherited insanity; that some day the asylum would claim him, and the thought that the law could separate him from his dearly beloved wife was maddening to him. Dr. Elliot, with his coldly scientific mind, defended the healthy man or woman hopelessly bound during the life of an incurable mate. Later Hilary's wife was placed in the position of choosing between pity for him because he was weak and sick and needed her, and love for another man who was strong and well and wanted her. These interesting situations are brought up with dramatic intensity in "A Bill of Divorcement," which stars the delightful Miss Constance Binney Wednesday and Thursday. It is a screen version of Clemence Dane's successful stage play which was the dramatic sensation of the New York theatrical season of 1921-1922, with a cast in support of Miss Binney, including Fay Compton, Malcolm Keen, Henry Vibart and Henry Victor—adv.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Those who saw Roy Stewart yesterday in "Burning Words" were thrilled with the stunts of this ever pleasing popular western star. Today is the last day of this splendid feature which is decorated with plenty of comedy and action to make it doubly entertaining. Wednesday and Thursday, Martin Johnson of African exploration fame presents his famous jungle romance "Adventures of the Jungle." It is not only educational but exciting and thrilling and shows plainly to what ends man has gone in order to bring such wonderful photographic scenes back to civilization. A comedy feature and screen snap-shots complete the program—adv.

WALDOBORO

A merry party of ten enjoyed a picnic and moonlight sail on the river Thursday. The ideal weather with the moon nearly at the full made the occasion one long to be remembered.

The party left the wharf at 4:30 in W. A. Richards' motor boat with Mr. Richards as pilot and Chester Benner as engineer. At 6:30 they landed at Sand Cove, Hog Island, which, with its fine beach and spring of water is just the spot for picnicking. The lunch itself rivals all description. Each member of the party had brought proofs of rare culinary skill and the result was fit for the gods. As the moon rose the party embarked once more and spent the evening sailing among the islands on the river. Those present were Mrs. Hadley H. Kuhn, Miss Marcia Blaney, Mrs. A. E. Boggs, Mrs. Karl Norton, Mrs. Maynard Kuhn, Mrs. Albert Benner, Mrs. John Gay, Mrs. William Labe, Miss Bessie Reed and Mrs. William Flint.

That remarkable child favorite Jackie Coogan will be seen tonight at the Star Theatre. In this picture, "Trouble," he shows the wide range of versatility which makes him the wonder of the age. It is a kid story carrying humor and pathos but full of heart interest and appeal. He plays the part of a young ragamuffin who eaves an orphanage because of bad treatment of his dog. The part ranges from a comedy scene in which he assists his foster father, a plumber in fixing a leak to a dramatic court-room scene in which the man who wrongs him is sent to jail.

"Drugging" a Forest. The scientists have discovered that they can change the color of trees in two nights, by an aniline dye injection. By this process it may be possible to change a forest to any color desired.

SUGGESTIVE LIST OF VEAL CUTS SUITABLE FOR DIFFERENT DISHES

The Meat for Veal Loaf Should Be Ground Fine and Seasoned.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Veal, contrary to the common belief, is wholesome and easily digested, experiments carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture have shown. Much of the prejudice against veal is a result of improper methods of preparation. It is a palatable meat, resembling the white meat of chicken in flavor. If eaten when served rare, or even underdone, veal is unappetizing and may cause some discomfort. The results are also unsatisfactory if veal is overcooked either by vigorous boiling or by roasting at a high temperature. Because of the rather mild flavor veal dishes are improved by seasoning with certain vegetables and herbs, such as carrots, onions, green peppers, celery, parsley or thyme.

The office of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture has drawn up a suggestive list of cuts suitable for various dishes. This list is not at all arbitrary and need not be slavishly followed. Cuts from the fore quarter of veal and a few of the tougher cuts from the hind quarter may require long cooking by such methods as stewing and braising, while the loin, the leg and the rib cuts are desirable for roast and entrees.

Soups.

The cuts best suited to soup making are the flank, the hind shank, the knuckle of the fore shank, or the rib ends. A well-seasoned veal soup, if strained and chilled, makes a very appetizing jelly for serving occasionally in place of the usual hot soup.

Stews.

For stews it is well to buy the neck, the ends of the ribs, the breast, or the thick part of the fore shank. Some of these cuts contain considerable soft bone, or cartilage, which may be removed from the stew before serving. Stews should be simmered slowly, avoiding an excess of water. The flavor of a stew is much improved if the pieces of meat are browned lightly in a little fat before adding the water.

Braised Veal.

Braising is a combination of stewing and roasting. The surface of the meat is usually seared in hot fat, then placed in a casserole or other baking dish with a cover; seasonings, including vegetables, if liked, and a little water are added and the whole cooked slowly in the oven. Such cuts as the shoulder, the breast, the fore shank, the flank (rolled), and even the neck are suited to this method.

Steaks, Chops and Cutlets.

Veal steak is cut from the round. The cuts corresponding to porterhouse steak in beef are merely large chops when cut from the smaller veal carcass. Steaks and chops may be either broiled or sautéed. Cutlets are usually taken from the round, although, when breaded and fried, the cheaper shoulder cuts are quite satisfactory.

Roasts.

Roasts are frequently cut from the leg, from the loin and from the rack or rib. The shoulder may be boned for a roast. The breast, boned and rolled, is excellent for this purpose.

Veal Loaf, Jellied Veal and Scalloped Dishes.

Veal loaf may be made from any cut which can be conveniently freed from bone and cartilage. The meat should be ground fine, seasoned and shaped into a loaf. Oil the surface well with bacon or beef drippings, brown quickly in a hot oven, then bake slowly until well done.

Jellied veal can be made from any of the bony cuts. Season well and simmer slowly in a small amount of water until well done. Free the lean meat from bone, cartilage and excess fat, arrange it in a bowl or dish and cover with strained broth. Chill until the mass gelatinizes.

Scalloped or creamed dishes may be prepared from any scraps of cooked veal. Use the broth, rather than milk, in making the sauce or gravy. Timbales may be made by lining timbale molds or custard cups with plain boiled rice, and filling with creamed veal, being careful not to have too much gravy. Cover the top with rice, stand the molds in a steamer or in a pan of hot water and cook for 20 minutes. Turn out upon a dish and serve hot.

Brains, Sweetbreads, Tongue, Liver and Heart.

Calves' brains are usually cooked in water, to which a little vinegar and salt have been added, then cut up and scrambled with eggs. Cooked brains may also be breaded and fried like cutlets or croquettes.

Sweetbreads are usually parboiled and creamed, but they may be baked with a little fat, or breaded and fried as cutlets. For salad, combine finely chopped celery with the boiled sweetbreads and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

The liver is usually fried with bacon. It is also good if braised and served in place of game.

The tongue, either fresh or corned, may be boiled and served hot with a tomato sauce or sliced cold and served with salad. A fresh tongue may be braised.

Hearts may be boiled, or stuffed and baked. The heart is a very strong compact muscle and requires long slow cooking in order to render it satisfactory for serving.

House Keys Checked in Restaurants, German apartment houses are not constructed like American apartments, with a small entry in which are speaking tubes leading to the apartments. The houses are built with only a strong outer door between the stairway and the street. It is necessary for every tenant to carry two keys—one for his apartment door and one for the outer building door—and European keys are rarely less than four inches long and from 10 to 15 times the weight of a common doorway in the United States. One of the articles most commonly checked in restaurants, theaters, dance halls, etc., is the house key. It is too heavy for pocket use.

Tool of Savages. Chisels of sharp flint have always been used by savages to cut wood.

The Cow That Starved in Clover

A certain cow, though pastured in bountiful meadows, was attracted by the more tempting appearance of distant fields. Shunning the abundance at hand, she wandered afar, always finding the new spots less appetizing and less plentiful, and always leaving them untasted for the new fields inviting her on.

Growing hunger only spurred her on until finally, exhausted by it, she fell to the sands of a desert whence she never again arose.

People who shun the stores at home because of the allurements of those in larger towns often find themselves getting less than they expected. Get in the habit of seeing your local dealer first. If he hasn't what you want, he will gladly get it. You'll be helping him to serve you better by helping him to make it pay.

Explaining the "Matchmaker."
It is the natural instinct that makes every woman a matchmaker. She works blindly toward the baby. If she cannot have one directly, she will have it vicariously. The source of old maid is thus doomed to have a hand in the perpetuation of the race.—William J. Locke.

Victims of Impulses

By MARY WINIFRED FORD

(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Dignified Miss Murray closed her millinery shop, "The Elite," and as she drew the beautiful gray-silk draperies together, pulled down the pink shades, and turned the key in the door, she breathed a sigh of relief.

All winter long she had been kept busy studying the various creations and inventing new ones. The very "elite" patronized the exclusive shop, while many a young girl, hearing of mademoiselle's wonderful creations, hurried up a avenue to look in the gorgeous window filled with the most dazzling of creations, and while longing to possess one of these creations, shuddered at the price. Wherefore the shop was rightly called "exclusive," for only the very wealthy dared set foot upon its threshold.

Estelle Murray was herself "exclusive," and even the smart shoppers who entered her establishment deemed her unapproachable. It was her creations that hurried them to her shop, and the sweet smiles and patience of her corps of workers that made the sales, for mademoiselle insisted that a customer must not leave without a hat, neither must she be dissatisfied.

Miss Murray, although apparently a young woman, rarely smiled. She never overworked her help, divided half-holidays with them, yet even to the young girls working for her she seemed aloof and cold. They adored the dreamy gray eyes and the long, fringed lashes of their employer, and in spite of her aloofness, they found themselves learning to love her.

It was the second week of June, and Miss Murray readily saw that her girls were tired and, despite her efforts not to have it so, overworked. She called them together and told them to prepare to go where they wished the next two weeks; that she was going to close the shop, and that they would each be given two weeks' pay. They were all about to tell mademoiselle how much they appreciated this kindness, but she drew herself up haughtily and walked away without a word. They were not surprised, for was not this typical of their employer?

Estelle Murray hurriedly packed her suitcase and grip and without a word to anyone, she soon sped away in her roadster, she herself hardly knowing where. She kept flying on, until, finally, from the roadside she noticed ever so many electric lights and things moving rapidly 'round and 'round, then distant music reached her ears. She found a little later that she was at some beach, amid the whir and glide of merry-go-round and roller coaster. The streets were thronged, and music seemed to come from everywhere.

Young girls hurried past her little car, chatting gaily with their escorts, and then a rippling laugh would reach her. A feeling of envy possessed her. Why was she so lonesome? Was the very thing she had fought against for the last three years about to take possession of her again?

She parked her car and walked. More than one person looked at this haughty-looking young woman and passed on. Estelle felt that for some reason folks did not seem to care for her. They would give her an ugly stare and walk on.

"Oh, to be carefree again and to be able to laugh like those young girls. Here I am only twenty-five and feeling like thirty-five, successful as a business woman, plenty of money—everything." Then suddenly she murmured—sometimes I feel as though I want—

A voice interrupted her thoughts and someone was addressing her.

"I beg your pardon," she heard a very deep, musical voice saying, "but for a moment I thought you were Miss Haviland of New York, but not having seen her for five years, possibly I am mistaken."

Estelle was a quick thinker, and sometimes very impulsive. In a very sweet, girlish voice she answered the good-looking man beside her:

"I am Miss Haviland, and you are—let me think—Not Bob Grayson? I have it! Are you not his chum?" And all the haughtiness had vanished. The gray eyes were no longer dreamy; they were sparkling with mischief and a delicious laugh came from that same girl.

Richard Malcolm looked intently at the young girl, and "Dick," as he was known to all his friends, lost something that night he never afterwards recovered.

"Why, yes, I am he, and I am so awfully glad to see you again, Miss Haviland. Are you going out to the dance tonight? It's so jolly to have the dance hall out there near the wild waves." Then, as he saw something that looked like refusal in her eyes, he said: "Do let us go out, Miss Haviland; it will seem like old times." And Dick won the evening.

Before the dance was over, Dick suggested that they leave and try the sports for a change. First it was the old merry-go-round, then the "old tub," next the roller coaster. Estelle became rather nervous going down the first "dip" and clung to Dick, while that young man felt it his duty to protect her. While going down the second "dip" he whispered softly, and really unconsciously, "Never mind, dear, I am here with you." But Estelle had heard, and the next glide was as in a dream. She had forgotten everything save the words of Dick.

It was getting late. Estelle had for gotten about engaging a room at the hotel, and when Dick asked where she was stopping she was at a loss to explain.

"Come for a ride, Mr.—er—now, really, I do believe I've forgotten—" They had reached the roadster by this time. Dick took the wheel, and was going—well, neither knew where—but Dick felt he had a confession to make, while Estelle was having a grand time with her conscience.

"Mr. Unknown," came from Estelle in a very weak voice. "I never knew—never saw you before tonight. I—I was just lonesome and acted on the impulse of the moment."

A laugh of genuine heartiness fell upon Estelle's ears. She looked up, startled, as Dick stopped the car in front of a large white house.

"Oh, this is pretty rich! I never laid eyes on you until tonight. You looked kind of lost, and to tell you the truth, your eyes made mischief, that's all, and I—"

"You, you crook!" Estelle cried, yet there was not a hint of anger in the way she addressed him. He was greatly relieved. Somehow he felt she wasn't angry.

"And you are the cleverest little crook, young lady, that I ever heard of. But, oh! I can assure you I am mighty glad you were a little crook, for it was going to be mighty hard for me to explain and gain your forgiveness."

"Something tells me I would forgive you, though, for, if I am not greatly mistaken you, like myself, happen to be a victim of your own impulses." And the man felt she was sincere.

The result of it all was that Estelle stopped over with his sister in the white house that night, and the "Elite" shop, now under new management, but with Estelle's corps of workers, never again saw Miss Murray, as they once knew her, for Mrs. Dick Malcolm runs in now and then to talk with the young girls and to buy some of the pretty creations.

Tomorrow afternoon the Country Club has another of its Wednesday afternoon teas, from 3 to 5, when tea is served without charge to members. Here is a fine opportunity for the ladies to bring their sewing, lounge upon the verandahs, have a game of auction, enjoy themselves in a variety of ways. On Friday evening occurs the second of the midsummer series of dances that already have developed popularity, especially among the younger set.

Stephen Gould has returned from a visit in Vinalhaven.

Mr. Scofield became in 1884 chief clerk of the War Department and assistant to Secretary of War. A position he has continued to fill through every succeeding administration. He became a close friend of Mr. and Mrs. Kallach, who took up their residence at the national capital in 1883. It was Mr. Scofield's first visit to Maine.

Miss Winnie Fitch is going to Worcester, Mass., where she will have a secretarial position in the Worcester State Normal School. Her mother will join her there later. Miss Fitch's position with Fuller-Cobb-Davis is taken by Mrs. Maude Melvin Stevens.

Oscar Raymond Marsh celebrated his latest birthday Sunday afternoon by entertaining at dinner two boon companions at his home at 79 Broad street. The table was intended to be laid in the "kym" in the back yard, but owing to the damp air the five candles on the birthday cake could not function properly, so Oscar received his guests in the dining room, where a very attractive feast was spread with appropriate decorations. Oscar dined for the occasion one of his most-prized gifts, a complete Indian costume. The food and the favors soon disappeared. Miss Frances graced the table with her enlivening presence and original remarks. Oscar received many little gifts and the affair was a success by all the participants.

Miss Ella D. Morton of Cambridge, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. F. E. Follett, Broadway.

Ralph Merrill and family of Newtonville, Mass., are at Trial Mark Camp, on the Owl's Head shore.

Mrs. Charlotte Whittier, who has been making her home the past two months in St. Johnsbury, Vt., is in the city for an extended visit, possibly until Oct. 1st, stopping at present, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Morton, at the Lufkin house, Broadway. Mrs. Whittier's two sons, Norman and Stanley are now permanently located in Chicago, and in the employ of Store and Webster. Norman stands 6 feet 4 inches and Stanley is a 6-footer. And they are fine upstanding young men in more senses than altitude.

Miss Etta Dondis of New York and Miss Annie Dondis of Fall River are guests for a fortnight of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dondis, Spring street.

George E. Smith, who makes his home in Norfolk, Mass., and who is employed by Bird & Son in East Walpole, Mass., is here on a fortnight's vacation, and is stopping at the Brunswick Apartments. Mr. Smith, who was formerly employed by St. Clair & Allen, has been away from Rockland, but the old city is still dear to him, and he follows the local news religiously through the columns of The Courier-Gazette. His parents make their home with him, and they are also keenly interested in affairs pertaining to their former home. Mr. Smith formerly played with the Rockland Military Band, and will never forget the trip he made to the Republican State Convention in Bangor, at which Hon. William T. Cobb was nominated for governor.

NEW YORK NEWS LETTER

by Carol Colbourne

New York—We saw Miss Eleanor Gates, the author of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," and "The Rich Little Poor Boy," high on her mountain overlooking the buffaloes and wolves of Central Park. The animal pens are within sight and hearing of her.

"When I work late at night," said Miss Gates, "the howling of the wolves stimulates me. I am from the West, you see." We asked if she were doing an adventure story.

"It is impossible to do anything else," she said, "life is nothing but adventure."

"What do you consider its biggest adventure?"

"Death," she answered. "But seriously, I am dramatizing 'The Rich Little Poor Boy,' to be produced by Leonard Wood, Jr., son of Gov. Gen. Wood of the Philippines. It is the story of a little boy of the slums, poor in money but rich in American heart and brain."

"What effect do you most desire your books to have on children?"

"To teach them to love better, their land of opportunity."

"Had you anyone in mind when you created the rich little poor boy?"

"Can't you guess?" she smiled. "It was Henry Ford. He was the greatest rich little poor boy of them all."

If you were meandering down Fifth Avenue these days you would be sure to hail with delight the swan song of another fad, the corsetless age. Even though the heat demands the minimum of clothing, the corset—and the fur—appear on at least nine out of ten of the fair sex. How do we know? Simple enough. The improved appearance. That's one of the reasons—and the best of reasons for a woman—why this fad has spent itself, for fads, like epidemics, will soon cease to exist if the reason for their being is lacking. And since a woman just can't look fashion-wise without a corset, that valuable factor in the toilette is sure sooner or later to be very much present. It's the very foundation of good-dressing and, we might add, of self-respect.

"Give the flapper a corset," advises Gertrude Atherton, and she will be compelled to walk and sit straight. And walking and sitting straight she will presently think straight. Then she's on the straight road to success."

Mrs. Eleanor Cote Howard of this city and Miss Evelyn Jean of New York, who was visiting here, sang at the Northport Country Club's concert Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dyer and son Alton, Mrs. E. S. Rich, Mrs. J. J. Roberts and granddaughter Geraldine motored to Winter Harbor Saturday, returning Sunday evening. They had a very enjoyable trip calling on their friends and renewing old acquaintances.

Miss Isabel Hammond arrived Sunday from Winter Harbor, and is with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Roberts, Granite street for a few weeks' visit.

There will be a business meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club Wednesday evening at 7.30. There is very important business to be transacted.

Mrs. Martin Billings and son Martin have returned from a visit with relatives in Stonington.

Miss Edna Gross and Miss Pearl Borgerson spent the weekend with Miss Gross' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gross at Stonington.

Kennebec Journal: Mr. and Mrs. Almond B. Sullivan and daughters, Marjorie and Helen, have returned to their home in this city, after enjoying a vacation at Squirrel Island. Mrs. Sullivan and the children have been at the island for the past three weeks, where Mr. Sullivan joined them a week ago.

Miss Edna Gregory left Saturday for a visit with relatives in Milton, Mass.

Milton W. Weymouth has rejoined his family in this city after a fortnight's stay in Pittsfield, Mass., where he avers that he has been haying.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Foley were called to East Milton, Mass., last week by the sudden death of Mr. Foley's brother Paul—the first death to invade the ranks of a family of 11 children.

To those reasons, personal appearance and mental health, we must add a still more fundamental one, physical betterment. Doctors often disagree, but on the subject of corsets they heartily second Dr. Royal S. Copeland and Dr. Lorenz in urging the necessity of a support for the abdominal walls and a protection for the vital organs.

To all this youth may scoff and throw in a few remarks on comfort, but even the most thoughtless can see through the years that dreaded time-teller, the middle-age spread. Time and experience have written it indelibly as the fate of her who discards the good corset.

The American is en route this summer. Certain it is that American dollars are fairly pouring into Europe. But if we are invading the continent with American dollars, Europe is fairly bombarding our shores with her "fruit of the soil," her immigrants.

As regularly as the roses appear in our gardens in June so does Flo Ziegfeld with a new Follies. This year, instead of introducing an annual crop of rose beauties, he has retained the most popular of the perennials, adding up-to-the-minute features to stamp it a Summer edition. He has brought back to his "rosebud garden of girls" Ann Pennington, supported by Gallagher and Shean and Eddie Cantor. The aura of prima donna scintillates around Miss Marvengo from Vienna, the city of beautiful women.

No, it's not to catch a glimpse of "her feet beneath the petticoat like little mice stealing in and out"—the "petticoats" are not long enough for that—that so many New York men cast their eyes on the pavements, but to catch the rainbow tints of the heels of the fair ones' silk stockings, since Paris has decreed a vogue of rainbow hosiery.

Earl Dunn of Buxton was in the city Saturday, enroute for North Haven.

Leslie W. Clark of Damariscotta Mills was a visitor in the city Saturday.

Invitations on characteristic Chinese cards announce a one o'clock luncheon for Thursday at the Claremont street home of Mrs. Edward F. Glover, who will share the office of hostess with Mrs. John E. Walker of Thomaston. The significance of the pictured invitations consists in the announcement that the afternoon will be devoted to the popular Chinese game of Mah Jongg.

Mrs. Alice Small of Detroit was a guest last week of Mrs. Susan Greenlaw. From here she goes to Stonington where she will spend the summer.

Miss Doris Coltart is spending a few weeks vacation with her grandparents at Long Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Huke, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Huke at Crescent Beach, returned to New York Sunday night.

The employees of V. F. Studley's store and a group of their friends had a picnic at Mirror Lake last Thursday evening, the party including: Mr. and Mrs. John Beaton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Achorn, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. John Conroy, Carlton Porter, Miles Simmons, Miss Adelle Brown, Mrs. Addie Morey, Mrs. Grace L. Kellar, Frank Lucy and Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Studley. John Beaton did his turn at serving, both at watermelon and tennis. The query is made if Porter is still hunting for the ball. As to the game of hide and seek, Adelle will have to go again to find the rest of the party.

Jack Horne of Portland, who has been the guest of Miss Irene Curtis for several days returned this morning. Next Sunday he goes to New York to enter the employ of the New York Telephone Co.

Mrs. Alec Wiggins, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKimney, Cedar street, has returned to her home in Somerville, Mass. She also visited her home at Wheeler's Bay.

O. P. DILDICK

Returns From His Travels and Turns a Watchful Eye On Home Affairs.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Well, I am back home at last. I expected to be home early, as it is blamed hot down in the Bahamas and whiskey is so free down there you can taste it in the air. I kept out of it, for I didn't want to get the habit onto me. On our way home I met Dr. Cook in Egypt and he said I could come in his flying machine. When we got to Boston, he said he would hunt up Sam Vanner and Ike Jim and all take a trip to the North Pole in his Ford flying machine.

Selinda always said, when she was recommending me in company, that I was a regular dare-devil, so to help her out on telling the truth I thought I would do something deserving the name, so I told Cook I would go. He said he would circle down over Razorville, but when we got to Wiscasset the wind blew up from the salt water and carried that darned old Ford way over past North Waldoboro. When we came up this way we saw a crowd hiding cider in the sand bank. We leveled our glasses on them and saw people in the bunch that we little dreamed would be caught in such nefarious business. If I should tell on them to the sheriff they would feel mighty cheap, because some of them were not ordinary everyday fellows who would want everybody to know they were smuggling cider.

Well, of course old Doc Cook wouldn't stop for Ike and me to get out and get under, so he swept on, and we got into a cloud of dust that will Overlock coming home from a trip with his Ford flyverette and got tangled up in some lightning rods on some kind of a summer hotel. Then we got onto the Narrow Gauge Railroad and got old Silas Guppli to bring us home, so here we are, instead of being up in the frozen north.

We found that Old Eben Peacock had got out of jail and had been making a lot of cheap talk about Ike Jim and me because we had him pulled up about five years ago for borrowing Tim Cunningham's rhubarb wine and getting Clem Whitman wizzy on it. Eben also stole Ben Tom's cast-iron bootjack and took it to Somerville and swapped it for hitters and had been selling it to old Garlin, so we had a good case against him. We took him before old Major Razor for trial and he and Capt. Farrar set on the case and also set on Eben and the evidence was so plain and convincing that they both without a shudder said:

"It is the consensus of our opinion that Mr. Peacock is, beyond a reasonable doubt, guilty of hydrogery and should not be allowed to run at large, or even walk at large, so we the above-mentioned said Razor and all whom it may concern do set forth that the said Eben Peacock should spend not less than twenty nor more than three years in the most secluded spot on earth, at laborious hard labor. We are sorry he has got excused from jail, for that is about all he is fitted for in this world and we hope he gets his just deserts in the next and has to stay there, for he is mean enough while alive and no knowing what he will be dead."

We democrats have got to do some lubricating here in this present for they have left off their watch and ward since I went away and been asleep on the job, but I reckon I can soon rally 'em up. They have been watching the night parades, I guess. This cider question seems to be somewhat in the people's minds and in some it has been all through them and took quite a holt on 'em, and from the least to the greatest. The peppermint and vanilla mixture had some bad symptoms. If the out of town visitors had stayed away there would been enough to last until after haying.

They thought they had fooled "GRAMP" when he came up from Rockland to sample the grave in the gravel bank, but GRAMP wasn't born yesterday and has every one of them, long and short, black and white, bond and free on his list for the Grand Jury. If some we saw on his list were in the parade on that fatal night. Unless the list shown us by Jason Webster was bogus, that fellow with the paper collar on and white kid gloves, smoking a twofer Virginia Chariot, will have to give up his job at the Crockett Hotel, his night clerk and go to keeping books at GRAMP'S HOTEL down at Rockland. We think it is mean for out of town tourists to interfere in our private affairs and cause our good people to be compelled to hide private stock for safety. But I am glad I got home to see to things.

O. P. Dildock.

Razorville, July 28.

MINISTERS SWAP STORIES

Preble and Cummings Former Knox Pastors Tell Two Good Ones.

This good story is from Eukatholia for July:

Dr. Preble, formerly pastor of the Baptist church in Auburn, is here for the summer from the Pacific coast. The Doctor tells about Pat and his penance and Charles S. Cummings is standing by listening. Cummings was formerly a Methodist minister. Pat had gotten drunk and had been penalized by a fine of five dollars. He paid and came up again. And the good father said: "Pat, I am ashamed of you, this time you shall pay $10 to some good cause of the church." Pat paid and a few weeks later came up again. This time the case was serious and the word was solemn and portentous. "Pat," was the word, "it seems hopeless. Nothing can stop you. But I will try. This time it will be $20. I won't pay it, Begorras. I'll sooner quit it all than pay. I'd sooner join the Methodist and go to hell."

Cummings said it reminded him of two boys who were playing baptism with a goat. The goat proved difficult. When they got his head under, the tail bobbed out and then when they pushed the tail in the head bobbed up. "The boys were Baptists all right," said Cummings, winking at Preble, who is a Baptist, "they believed in immersion, total immersion." Finally seeing that the goat would not take to the Baptist creed they pulled him out.

"Come on," said one of the boys, "let's quit; let's just sprinkle him and let him go to hell." Preble tells a story of the Texas democrat who did not exactly cotton to the prevailing politics in his section. This democrat was known to have strong anti-Bailey and Culberson et cetera notions and also to be unusually long on prayer. He came in late to the convention and the chairman called on him for the opening prayer. "Feller democrats," said he, "I'd rather not. I don't want to offer prayer because you see I don't just want Got to know that I'm here."

AN ATHLETIC PRESIDENT

Ralph E. Peck, New Head of Backstop Seminary Arrives in Three Sports.

East Maine Conference Seminary at Backstop is to have a president who is not only a scholar but an athlete for Ralph E. Peck, who was recently elected by the trustees to be the head of the venerable Methodist school has distinguished himself in several branches of athletics in school and college.

At Pennington school of which he is a graduate, he received the all-round medal which included scholarship and athletics, having played on the school's football, baseball and tennis teams. At Wesleyan, from which he is also a graduate, he played on the Varsity football team, playing quarterback his sophomore year and end his junior year. His senior year was interrupted by his entrance into the army but he continued his athletic work in the service being appointed coach of the football team of his battalion in which he was a captain.

His service record dates from the First Plattsburg camp. He was first commissioned first lieutenant and served in this country in that capacity, later going to France where he was commissioned captain of the 164th Infantry.

Since graduating from Wesleyan Mr. Peck has taken graduate work at New York university and he will come to Backstop from the position of assistant treasurer of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal church of which Dr. Abram W. Harris, former president of the University of Maine, is corresponding secretary. The position of treasurer being an honorable one, the real work of that department has fallen upon Mr. Peck who has proven a most capable official. He has been with the board since 1918.

Mr. Peck, who is married and has one child, will assume his duties at Backstop in August and his arrival is expected to install new life into the institution, one of the oldest and best equipped preparatory schools in the State.

Mrs. George Green, who has been at Silsby hospital for treatment has returned home.

A family by the name of Wadsworth has recently moved into town and are occupying the north tenement of Mrs. Green's house near the Inn.

L. O. Hanley returned recently from a trip to Green Island. Maynard S. Dean of Portland, who is having a two weeks vacation spending it at his summer home here, has been spending a few days on Green Island. He tells a funny incident which happened on his arrival home which is not surprising and altogether possible. An acquaintance met him on the street and asked him if he knew where a thirty man could get satisfaction. Mr. Dean's reply was "No Sir! you'll have to pass on to some other fellow." The man who accosted him very surlily replied: "Then take in your sign." The writer wishes to say that the elements are good sign painters.

Master Everett Redmond of Woodfords is a guest of Lawrence Dean for a few weeks.

Al Dean and family of Portland are in town for a few days. The summer sale and entertainment by the Ladies Aid for the benefit of the church will be given in Grange hall afternoon and evening of August 8th. There will be aprons, towels, rugs, fancy articles, home made candy, etc., on sale and a musical program in the evening if carried out as expected will be of unusual merit. Henrietta Green Kittredge, Laura Gooch, Strout, Beatrice Hooper and several others of pronounced musical ability have kindly consented to supply numbers for the program and it will be worth one's while to be present.

Mrs. Clarence Hall and two daughters, Misses Alice and Edith Hall of Hartford, Conn., are guests of Mrs. Hall's sister, Mrs. L. Newton Morgan. She returns to her home in Hartford soon that she may care for her peaches

XVIII. AMPLIFIERS

Amplifiers, which are devices designed to increase the volume of sound, are very simple affairs and while they may be bought ready-made any person can construct one in a few hours at much less cost. The most expensive part of an amplifier is the bulb or vacuum-tube and as such tubes as Myers are much cheaper than others and are exactly as good for amplification—though less efficient in the sending set—money can be saved by using them. A one-step amplifier, on such a set as described previously, will greatly increase the clearness and loudness of messages and by adding two or more, and using a loud tone horn or phone, music, singing, etc., can be produced to fill a large room or hall. In using two or more steps of amplifiers it is merely necessary to duplicate the first, which is shown in Fig. 52. The only thing to be borne in mind is always to turn the transformers at right angles to each other for each step. This is essential in order to break up the magnetic fields and prevent the machine from squealing or roaring. Another point to bear in mind is that the shorter the grid leads the more efficient the whole.

In the figure, A is a jack or plug-socket which is connected as shown, the outer arms a being connected back to the phone connections on the detector or original receiver set. Then, by inserting the plug of the phone between these (a a) the contact with

PLEASANT POINT

Mrs. Florence Orne and Mrs. Florence Geyer entertained the Baptist sewing circle Thursday.

Leslie Seavey has returned from Knox Hospital and is gaining every day, which is very pleasing to his many friends.

The Thursday evening meetings of the Pleasant Point Improvement Society are progressing finely. The schoolhouse is filled at each meeting. We feel grateful to the summer people who are helping in our literary program.

Miss Marian Gould and Miss Carrie Woodbury of Somerville, Miss Katherine Howe of Haverhill and Mrs. C. I. Hamblet of Salem who have been spending two weeks at Gull Rock cottage left Sunday night for Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haag and sons Robert and Richard of North Wales, Penn., who have been spending two weeks in the Byron Combs house, left Saturday for their home.

number of her young friends. She received a most charming hostess and received a number of nice presents. Dainty refreshments were served and a good time was enjoyed.

Spontaneity.
The bad poems are spun out of the writers' heads. But let a man see three white ducks waddle across the village green in the sunshine, and unselfishly delight in the sight, and express his delight in the first words that come, and it will not be a bad poem, very likely a triumphantly good one. The great mark of bad poetry is effort. The bad poets strive and cry, they toll and spin, they take thought. Good poetry comes without observation.—R. L. Gates.

Those small ads in The Courier-Gazette are read by every body. That is why they are so popular and effective.

When You
Build or Remodel

YOUR satisfaction with the finished work, whether it be new construction, repairing or remodeling, will depend entirely upon the grade of building materials used.

Our policy is to handle only the highest grade, carefully selected lumber and building materials. When we furnish the materials for the job, large or small, you are assured full value for your money.

We recommend Sheetrock, the fireproof wall-board, for walls and ceilings. Sheetrock is gypsum plaster in broad ceiling-high sheets, always 3/4 of an inch thick. It will not burn, swell, warp, shrink or crack. It is the only wallboard that can be successfully wall papered without using panel strips.
